Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Monday 12 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Humid. West, central, sunny, showery. East cloudy with coastal mist.

Today:
Most warm, humid with strong sunshine, which builds showers into the afternoon, bringing risk of thunderstorms, particularly across western hills. Always cloudier in east with coast misty with some drizzle and fog patches, perhaps longer spells of rain late afternoon.

Tonight:
Some heavy showers in central, west early evening, dying out before midnight. East cloudy with some rain, mainly focused around coastal fringes where more persistent outbreaks expected during the evening.

Tuesday:
Western, central areas warm, sunny and mostly dry with afternoon showers lighter and more isolated than off late. East starting dull with some patchy light rain, but brightening in south.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Warm for most with light winds, strong sunshine. With winds turning to the west the best of the conditions will switch to the east.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.